REFERENCES

28. Chitra S. and Rajasekarapandian S. (1992), 'Role of development authorities in the management of urban areas: A case study of Madras Metropolitan Development Authority', A research study, Institute of Town Planners India, New Delhi.

43. DTCP (1984), 'Pilot study on urban information system - A case study of Chengalpattu', Directorate of Town and country planning, Government of Tamil Nadu, Madras.

44. DTCP (1995), 'Integrated development small and medium size towns (IDSMT) for Karaikudi', Directoraste of Town and Country Planning, Madras.

47. Dung. N.T. (1992), 'Analysis of socio economic variables' course material, twentieth international training course in regional development planning, Nagoya, Japan.

55. ESRI (1990), PC ARC/INFO 3.4D, Environmental Systems Research Institute Inc., Redlands, USA.

68. Harris B. (1990), 'A software package for micro-computer based planning for small cities in developing countries', Personal communication from School of Planning and Architecture, New Delhi.

72. Hiromichi F. (1991), 'GIS approach in land use planning—case study in national capital region, Japan', Paper presented for the Session No.4 (urban land use) of INSEG, STB Research Institute, Tokyo, Japan.

77. IIPA (1977), 'Proceedings of the Seminar', Papers and proceedings of the seminar on City development plans and their implementation, pp.275-282.

80. IRS (1993), Zopp workshop on land information management for urban and rural area, Institute of Remote Sensing, Anna University, Feb. 1993, Madras.

81. IRS (1996), Pilot project on Land Information management system (LIM), Institute of Remote Sensing, Anna University, Madras.

87. Juppenlatz M. (1985), 'Computer use and information systems for town and regional planning', Workshop on land information system. Physical inputs to planning, TCPO, Ministry of Works and Housing, GOI.

121. MMDA (1992), 'Development control rules for MMA', MMDA, Madras.
122. MMDA (1995), 'Master plan for Madras Metropolitan Area 2011 (draft)', Madras Metropolitan development authority, Madras.

143. Raj (1977), 'City development plans and their implementation', Papers and proceedings of the seminar on city development plans and their implementation, IIPA, New Delhi, pp.1-26.

152. SAC and BMRDA (1989), ‘Remote sensing applications mission monitoring urban sprawl’, Space Application Centre and Bombay Metropolitan Regional Development Authority, Bombay.

178. TCE (1991), 'Master plan for water supply. Madras water supply and sanitation project', Tata Consultancy Engineers, MMWSSB, Madras.

179. TCPO and ICOR (1983), 'Workshop on Design, Development and Implementation of Urban Information Systems (URBIS)', Town and country planning organization, New Delhi and Institute for Coastal and offshore research, Visakhapatnam, India.

183. UNCHS (1989a), ‘Appropriate forms of urban spatial planning (Discussion paper revised draft), Urban management group, UNCHS, Nairobi, Kenya.

