ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I express my deep gratitude to my supervisor Dr. Geeta Manaktala, Reader, Department of Philosophy, Punjab University for her constructive and inspiring guidance and continuous encouragement given to me in the preparation of this thesis. I shall always remain indebted to Mr. Dharmendra Kumar of Delhi University, who evoked my interest in the subject twenty years back. I thank Indian Council of Philosophical Research for the encouragement and the research grant for completing this work.

I am grateful to Professor S.R. Bhatt of Delhi University for his affectionate and encouraging concern. I must record my gratitude to Professor Bhuvan Chandel, the Director, Indian Institute of Advanced Studies, who helped me in many ways for preparing this thesis. I also acknowledge my gratitude to Dr. H.P. Sah of Punjab University for rendering valuable suggestions. I am greatly benefited by the discussions I had with him especially during the initial period of my research. I am also grateful to all other faculty members of the Philosophy Department for their encouraging attitude. The administrative staff of Philosophy Department, Punjab University, Chandigarh and Indian Council of Philosophical Research, New Delhi has been of great assistance to me. I am grateful to Preeti Chandra from ICPR, Lucknow for supplying me relevant study material by post.
Professor H.S. Prasad of Delhi University has obliged me in guiding me for methodological regularities while editing this work. I am thankful to him for this kind gesture. I thank Dr. Mahesh Sharma of the History Department, Punjab University for hunting out and supplying valuable study material collected from various universities and libraries.

My husband has been a motivating force behind my strength. My children Sumant and Sampada have contributed a lot in preparing bibliography and the correction of the rough drafts of this work. In the end, I am grateful to Mr. Gursharan Singh from Astha Commercial Centre, Vikaspuri, New Delhi for the special care and attention given to this work during typing and binding. Despite the help received to me from my teachers, I take the responsibility for the shortcomings which have crippled into my work that I have not been able to overcome.
