It gives me deep sense of satisfaction and pride that I have been able to complete this extensive work. The present thesis is the outcome of the continuous effort for the past few years and during this study a number of people have given their valuable help and suggestions to make it more meaningful and logical. It is very difficult to set priority to name all these personalities but still I would name a few who have made all the differences.

The success of work largely depends on the person under whose guidance it is completed. I must first of all express my heartfelt gratitude to my supervisor Prof. Meenakshi Malhotra, whose patience, clarity of thought and scholarly advice has been invaluable. Her suggestions, detailed discussions and constant encouragement in laying down the format of the study were extremely helpful in improving the quality of work.

I am also thankful to all the faculty members, librarians and all the staff members of the department for helping me in my research work.

Further I am thankful to all the respondents of the Telecommunication Organizations for their patience, cooperation and confidence they have reposed in me.

No words in deed can express my feelings for my father Mr. J.S. Virk, to whom I am indebted for a life time, my elder sister Dr. Gurjeet Virk Sidhu who were a big source of inspiration for me to undertake this arduous task. I am especially most grateful to my aunt, Mrs. Kusum Chopra for his valuable statistical assistance to get this research work completed efficiently and in time.

I also acknowledge with thanks for the support provided by Mr. S.S Bedi, Librarian, URS, Panjab University, Chandigarh. My heartiest thanks are also due to the administrative staff of URS for their kind cooperation.

I would like to thank all those who in one way or another might have helped me in the project but whose names might not have appeared above owing to paucity of space. Lastly, to the Almighty who gave me strength to complete this work.
