Acknowledgement

It becomes my duty to express my deep gratitude towards all those individuals and agencies have constantly helped me during the course of my research work. First and foremost I owe deep gratitude to my supervisor Professor Reeta Grewal, Department of History, Panjab University, Chandigarh for her keen interest, cooperation and guidance; I would not have perhaps been able to complete the work. I can never forget the manner in which she devoted herself to the study of the present thesis, despite her extremely busy schedule.

For the completion of this work I received support from a number of libraries and institutions, such as Punjab State Archives Chandigarh and Patiala; Haryana State Archives, Panchkula; Jawahar Lal Nehru Museum and Library, New Delhi; National Archives of India, New Delhi; Sikh History Research Centre, Khalsa College, Amritsar; Guru Nanak Dev University, Amritsar; Punjabi University, Patiala; A.C Joshi Library, Panjab University Chandigarh; Punjab State Library, Chandigarh, Dawarka Das Library, Chandigarh, Census Department Library, Chandigarh and the British Library, Chandigarh, I am thankful to them all for enabling me to collect valuable source material for my work.

I am grateful to the University Grants Commission for providing me financial assistance under Maulana Azad National Fellowship-Senior Research Fellow, for the completion of this research.

I am thankful to the faculty of the Department of History, Panjab University for their valuable suggestions and co-operation. A special thanks is due to Prof. Rajiv Lochan for his constant inspiration. I am thankful to all my friends who were always a source of great help and encouragement.

I am also thankful to my father S. Rubhash Singh Jakhar, mother Sr. Pritpal Kaur, and my brother Harpuneet Singh, Jatinder Brar, my sister-in-law Manpreet Kaur and above all my nephew Bhavjasbir who stood by me in the completion of my research work.
