ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

It gives me great pleasure at this juncture to acknowledge all those people who have helped me directly or indirectly in my research work. First and foremost I am highly grateful to Dr. Hemlata Rao, Professor and Head of Economics Unit, Institute for Social and Economic Change, Bangalore for agreeing to extend her valuable guidance. It is her dynamic attitude, which enabled me to complete this research work in spite of my visual impairment. Dr. Hemlata Rao, took extra-ordinary interest in the advancement of my research career and also took great pains to direct my research work to a successful completion. She encouraged me in using the methodology developed by her. She considered my special case as a challenge and provided such moral support, which gave me great deal of determination.

I am thankful to Mr. T.R. Satish Chandran, former Director, ISEC, for having selected me as a research fellow of the institute. I thank Dr. M.Govinda Rao, Director, ISEC, for his encouragement and support. I owe a lot to the distinguished faculty of ISEC for their good wishes and I have derived a great deal from their expert knowledge and scholarship. In this regard, I remember with gratitude Prof. M.V. Nadkarni, Prof. Abdul Aziz, Prof. V.M.Rao, Prof. M.Venkata Reddy, Prof. P.Hanumantharayappa and all faculty of Economics Unit and other units as well in addition to those in the research and administrative divisions.

I thank Prof. D.T. Nanje Gowda, Prof. Veerachamy, Prof. R.G. Desai, Prof. N. Rangaswamy, Prof. S.N. Nanje Gowda and all the faculty members of the Department of Economics, Bangalore University, who were not only very much interested in my academic progress but also gave me valuable support and facilitated the successful completion of my research work.
My friends in ISEC gave me their full co-operation and affectionate support. Here, I should thank Dr. V. Venkatakrishnan who has rendered extra-ordinary help. He is with me at all the crucial stages of the thesis. His help in the matter of library reference, administrative aspects and moral support have really kept me going in times of great difficulties. I am indeed grateful for his brotherly affection towards me and my welfare. I sincerely thank Drs. H.S. Shylendra, T.V. Shekar, S. Rajendran, T. M. Joseph, Lakshmikanthamma, Raghavendra Rao, Jayasheela, Mr. Chokkalingam and Mr. Sudish, who all have extended great help to me. Thanks are also due to my friend, Mr. Amarnath, Technical Assistant, Economics Unit, ISEC for his valuable assistance.

I thank the library staff of ISEC, particularly Miss.R.Rajalakshmi, Mr. K. Venkatesh, Mr. Kalayanappa and Mr. Rajanna who provided me a lot of assistance in the library usage. I am also thankful to the library staff of Institute for Development Studies, Mysore and Administrative Training Institute, Mysore. I am also thankful to Mr. H.S. Sadananda, Mr. H.K. Govinda Rao and Mr. K.S. Narayana who helped me in various procedural aspects of the submission of my thesis.

The nature of the study was such that I had to depend upon data from various departments of Government of Karnataka. Many people who were in charge of these departments took keen interest in my work and helped me to secure the necessary data. I take this opportunity to thank Dr. Ahalya Bhatt, former Director of Planning Department, Government of Karnataka, Mr.Ramashesha, Directorate of Economics and Statistics, Mr. Krishnaswamy, Public Works Department, Mr. Adisesha, KEB, Mr. Koppal, Small Industries Service Institute and Mr. Nagaraj, Department of Animal Husbandary.
I am thankful to Mr. Shekar and Mr. Achar of ‘V Serve’, my friends, Mr. H.G. Srinivas, Mr. C. Satyendra, Mr. B.S. Raghavendra and Mr. Kalyan Kumar for their computer assistance. I am also thankful to Mr. V.S. Parthasarathy for his suggestions regarding language and structural aspects of the thesis.

I take this opportunity for a special acknowledgement to my wife Mrs. Nagarathna, who is the inspiration and spirit behind this work. She read for me hours together, accompanied me in data collection, helped me in sorting out the mammoth amount of data, assisted me in presenting the same in a classified pattern and typed my marathon dictation with great deal of application. In a nutshell, it was she who gave a concrete shape to my mental output. There is no exaggeration in the fact that her constant moral and practical support is fully behind this work at the cost of her career, family and social life. My affectionate thanks are due to my little daughter Snehaja for her excellent co-operation. Last but not the least, I thank my mother, Smt. H.A Lalitha brother Mr. B.S. Kumar, sister Mrs. B.S. Veena and relatives who encouraged me to pursue my research career. I particularly thank my grandmother, Mrs. Sharadamma, who is a great source of inspiration. I dedicate this work to the memory of my father Late. Sri. S.R. Seetharam, who passed away during the final stages of my thesis. It was his dream to see the thesis in its final shape.
