This research work would not have taken its present form without the help and support of numerous people who took special interest in this study and guided me throughout.

First and foremost I am indebted to Dr. P.S. Jaswal, Professor, Faculty of Laws, Panjab University, Chandigarh without whose invaluable guidance and suggestions this work could not have been completed. I do not have words to express my gratitude for the keen interest, persistent encouragement, involvement and commitment shown by him in the completion of the study despite of his engagements and busy schedule.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank Dr. K.N.Chandrasekharan Pillai, Director, ILI, New Delhi for his constant help and to whom I could refer in case of difficulty.

I am also thankful to Mrs. Shabistan Aquil, Assistant Research Professor, ILI, New Delhi for providing necessary inputs and Mr. Vishnu K. Kutheria, HAS Retd., former Jt. Secy. Home, Govt. of Himachal Pradesh, Shimla, who not only arranged for the jail visits but also personally accompanied me to Nahan Jail. Thanks are due to the various jail superintendents who provided insights on the working of jails and helped conduct interviews with inmates. A special word of appreciation to the inmates of the jails who were very cooperative and responded to the queries promptly.

I am also thankful to Mr. Praneet Gupta, Advocate, H.P. High Court, Shimla who from time to time arranged and provided the necessary material and arranged for the inspection of record in the H.P. High Court. I thank my brother- in- law Mr. Parikshat Mehdudia, Former Advocate for his moral support throughout.

I also express gratitude to various research and academic institutions from where the relevant material and information was collected and various authors whose work was consulted, referred and have quoted in my study. I am immensely thankful to the staff of various libraries: the Delhi University Library, the Panjab University Library, H.P. High Court Library, the International Law Society Library National Archives of India and a word of special thanks to Ms. Neera Chabbra of the Supreme Court Library who was ever ready to provide me with the reading material.

Above all it was my husband Rahul who not only read the drafts but also inspired me throughout to complete my research. Had it not been for him I would have had to shelve this project. Thanks are also due to my children Devika and Nakul who were ignored due to my involvement in the work. But they were always smiling which made the task easier.

Last but not the least I would like to thank Ms. Neena Bhatia, Ms. Rama and other people at ILI for helping me in typing this manuscript and Ms. Niki Gupta for helping analyze the data and preparing the graphics.

Above all the blessings of the Almighty were with me.
