ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

My sincere gratitude and thanks is for my supervisor. Prof., A.M. MATTOO, Director, Centre of Central Asian Studies, whose constant advice enabled me to complete my work.

While perusing this problem, I was able to spend most of the time in Mongolia to notice this phase of transition. Mongolian scholars, and students in many ways helped me to analyze the developments, if anywhere were beyond my comprehension.

Language was not a barrier to me, as I have also spent more than two years in Mongolia while graduating in the Mongolian language.

I may confess that the completion of the thesis was not possible without the active and fundamental support of my teachers, friends, and fellow colleagues.

My thanks goes to Mr. Ch. Burenbayar, press secretary to President of Mongolia and my close friend Ms. Khulan, Ms. Gerelsuren, president, women’s federation of Mongolia Dr. Prof. Shagdariin Bira, secretary general, Mongolian Academy of Science, who invited me to participate in the 7th International Congress of Mongolia, there by giving me a chance to see the scholars from many countries and their views and observation on changing Mongolia. My Mongolian Teachers were a great help to me in collecting materials from different institutes and universities. I am also thankful to my husband, Shigeki SHIOTANI whose support and assistance, helped me in writing this thesis. I would like to thank Mr. Hamadi ZARDOUM from Tunisia, Ph.D. student in Civil Engineering, University of Kanazawa, who took trouble in computerizing this material. Finally I would like to thank my brother, Farooq SARFI who motivated me to continue my field of work and with whose encouragement I was able to finish this project. I would love to thank my children, Rubina and Himayun who supported me all through my work being very nice to me....
