BIBLIOGRAPHY

skills development. Proceedings of a conference held at the University of Warwick, 6-7 July, Warwick, SCONUL, pp. 80-82.

267

81. Fjallbrant, J and Levy, P (1999): Information literacy courses in engineering and science – the design and implementation of the Available at:
http://www.iatul.org/conference/proceedings/vol09/docs/calisce.pdf

IATUL Quarterly, 2(4), pp.228-236.

83. Fjallbrant, N (2000): Information literacy for scientists and engineers: experiences of EDUCATE and DEDICATE. Program,

84. Fjallbrant, N (2000): The Development of Web-Based Programs to Support Information Literacy Courses. Information Literacy around the World. Advances in Programs and Research. Wagga Wagga, New South Wales: Charles Stuart University, pp.27-28.

training and support programs for Engineers and Scientists.
Available at:
http://educate.lib.chalmers.se/DEDICATE/docs/calisce.pdf

86. George, R et al... (2001): Information literacy – an institution­ wide strategy. Australian Academic and Research Libraries, Vol.32, No.4.

88. Govt. of India, Ministry of Law and Justice (2005): The Right to Information Act, 2005. The Gazette of India dated 21.06.2005,
No.25.

89. Govt. of India, Ministry of Science and Technology: Research and Development Statistics at a glance 2004-2005. New Delhi: Dept. of Science and Technology, p.8.

100. Hill, C (2000): Improving information skills programs using action research. In Booker, D (ed.): Information literacy in Australian agenda. Proceedings of a conference conducted by the University of South Australia, 2-4 Dec. pp.139-146. Adelaide: University of South Australia Library.

105. ILI-L Discussion List. Available at: http://www.ala.org/ala/acrlbucket/is/ilil.htm (Accessed on 02.01.2007).
106. INFLIBNET Website: http://www.inflibnet.ac.in [Accessed on 09.08.2006]

121. Kuhlthau, C C (1996): The concept of a zone of intervention for identifying the role of intermediaries in the search process. Available at: http://dlis.geiss.ucla.edu/DL/kuhlthau.html
123. Lau, Jesus (2004): International guidelines on information literacy: a draft proposal to IFLA. The Hague: IFLA. Available at:

186. Smalley, T N (2000): Do students actually become better researchers through information literacy instruction supported by class sessions in the library? Assessing learner outcomes in a lower division Anthropology course. Available at: http://www.cabrillo.cc.ca.us/~+smalley/

211. Weetman, J (2002): It ain’t what you do, it’s the way that you do it – evaluating information skills through formal assessment. In Impact, relevance and quality evaluating information skills training. Presentation given at the University, Colleges and Research Group meeting held at Leicester, De Montfort University on 16th Jan.

