ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I am very fortunate to have had the opportunity of working under the guidance of Dr. A.S. Kadi, Reader in Statistics, to whom I am greatly indebted. His valuable guidance and encouragement throughout the course of my research work made it possible to complete this thesis.

I am thankful to Prof. Nagnur, Chairman, and Prof. M.S. Chikkagoudar, Co-Ordinator to DRS-COSIST Scheme, Department of Statistics for providing me all the facilities to do research in the Department. Also, I am thankful to Prof. M.V. Muddapur, and Prof. R.D. Kanamadi and other teachers for their help and encouragement during my stay in the University.

I am indebted to Prof. M. Sivamurthy, UN Demographic Expert (CDC, CAIRO) for having glanced through the manuscript within in a short time and for making useful comments, specially regard to coverage.

I am grateful to the Principal K.B. Patil and Prof. S.C. Hiremath of S.B. Arts and K.C.P. Science College, Bijapur for deputing me to take up this research work in the Department of Statistics, Karnataka University. Thanks are also due to my colleagues for their co-operation during this period.

Dr. K.B. Pathak, Director, International Institute of Population Studies (IIPS), Bombay and Dr. Mari Bhat, Director, Population Research Centre, Dharwad; were responsible in providing library facilities in their Institutions, and thank them all. Also I thank the ICSSR, Western Regional Centre, Bombay for granting me Library Visiting Scholarship.
My sincere thanks are due to Prof. V.L. Channal of A.S.P. Com College and Prof S.R. Yadrami and S.G. Gani of my college for their constant encouragement for undertaking this research programme.

I would like to express my appreciation to fellow researchers: Mr. Halingali, Mr. Javali and others for their fruitful association and co-operation during this period.

It is great pleasure I express my deep sense of gratitude to my brother Sri. B.B. Nadagoudar, D.F.O. for his affection and encouragement throughout my education.

My Special thanks are also due to University Grant Commission (UGC) for having selected me under Teacher Fellowship for under taking this task.

The sacrifice made by my sister Mahadevi to ensure good education for me is acknowledgement with a sense of everlasting gratitude. Also, I would like to express my deep appreciation to my wife Suvarna and our lovely son Chetan for their understanding and moral support.

Dharwad
