Bibliography
Sources for any study are classified into Primary, Secondary and Tertiary. Generally, tertiary sources are not consulted and not included in the Bibliography; even if there are such material. Primary sources are classified as primary because of their credibility and contemporaneity. For instance, for the study of the life and work of Fr. Francis Xavier, his letters are of primary value whereas, those writing which have been written using these letters are considered as secondary. This is the classifications of sources followed in this Bibliography.
