ACKNOWLEDGMENT

A ccomplishment of such work needs great efforts and requires help, support and good wishes of many people as well. This work is not an exception and in completion of this work several person has helped and encouraged me by providing various types of support in several ways. At this moment I must acknowledge them for their kind help and benevolent support.

First and foremost I am deeply indebted to Most Venerable Thích Giác Nhiên, Venerable Thích Giác Lượng, Venerable Thích Giác Toàn, my esteemed master Venerable Thích Giác Dũng, Venerable Thích Như Điển, Venerable Thích Minh Hỏi, and Venerable Thích Minh Hiếu for their help and support they have provided in one way or the other in shaping my monk life till date. I think without their assistance and encouragement, this study would not have been possible. I am also thankful to the Buddhist Sangha of Vietnam for providing me all kinds of help and guidance which is essential to lead a monk life.

I am highly grateful to my supervisor, Dr. Mohd. Habib for his able guidance. His personal concern always instilled a sense of confidence and enthusiasm in me during the course of this arduous work.

I am heartily thankful to my co-supervisor, Dr. Rajesh Ranjan for his kind inspiration and guidance throughout my studies at Punjabi University, Patiala. Throughout my thesis-writing period, he provided encouragement, sound advice, and a great deal of good ideas. His efforts to explain things clearly and simply enabled me to develop a considerable knowledge of the subject. His critical advice with kind words at every step helped me in moving towards the right direction. I am greatly indebted to him for his all kind of help.

I am extremely grateful to Professor Dr. Harpal Singh Pannu, Head, Guru Gobind Singh Department of Religious Studies, Punjabi University, Patiala, who supported and provided all kinds of official assistance which were required since admissions to the culmination of this study. His ever charming and smiling face and respect for Buddhist monks have been a source of inspiration for me.

I would also like to take this opportunity to thank all the teachers of the Guru Gobind Singh Department of Religious Studies, who have helped me in one way or the other in completion of this work.

I am grateful to all the library staff of the Guru Gobind Singh Department of Religious Studies, Punjabi University, Patiala, as well as the library staff of the Bhai Kanh Singh Nabha Library, Punjabi University, Patiala for providing books/journals available in both the libraries. I am also thankful to the library staffs of the Nava Nalanda Mahavihara, Nalanda and the Department of Buddhist Studies, University of Delhi for helping me to gain access to a large collection of consultation materials of their libraries for this study.

I wish to express my thankfulness to my friend in Dhamma Bhikkhu Thích Minh Hoa, who helped me in all respect since I have arrived in India for study and research. I also indebted to all the Brothers and Sisters-in-Dhamma, who helped and encouraged me during the course of my study in India.
At this moment I would particularly like to pray Lord Buddha for the well being of all the lay followers, particularly to Madame Hoà Ngọc, Chòn Tài and many others, who supported me financially. It is due to their generous support that I could come to study in India.

Last but not the least I offer my regards and blessings to all who supported me in any respect during the completion of the thesis and my stay in India and whose names did not find mention in the above paragraphs.
